SUMMARY

Please replace paragraphs [0010]-[0011] with the following paragraphs:

[0010] In one aspect of the present teaching, a roof structure for a vehicle comprises a rear roof part, which comprises a vehicle rear window, side, rear pillars and a rear segment of the vehicle roof. The rear roof part is displaceable on the vehicle chassis in the vehicle longitudinal direction. A forward roof part is attachable adjacent to a windshield frame of the vehicle and is removable from the roof structure. The length of the forward roof part in the vehicle longitudinal direction corresponds to the displacement path of the rear roof part. In addition, rear, side elements are attachable adjacent to the rear roof part and are removable from the roof structure. The length of the rear, side elements in the vehicle longitudinal direction corresponds to the displacement path of the rear roof part.

[0011] In another aspect of the present teachings, vehicles are taught that include the above-noted roof structure.
